THURSDAY ..... MAY 23, 1895.

The Elections To-Day. Elections take place in all of the cour ies and in many of the cities and towns of Virginia to-day. The offices to be filled are such as have to do with local government, and, while they are of great ocal importance, the contests over them to not command general interest, inasmuch as they have little or no bearing upon the future of parties in this State. In the majority of cases the Democratic minees will have little or no opposition. But in some localities there are very hot lights between the "ins" and the "outs," and in these localities the Republican and Populistic votes will be influential. In some other countles the Republicans and Populists are in league to oust the Democrats from office, and here party-lines are pretty well drawn.

So, the campaign has not been conducted upon a uniform line, and, while there are very exciting contests in some counties, in adjacent counties the elections possess no elements of interest. It is something of a "go-as-you-please" campaign; the expectation being, however, that the haters of the Democratic party will give us a blow wherever they are

In Richmond we have no election this spring. Our municipal election takes place next May, but our people in common with all the people of Virginia will be called upon to go to the polls to vote for legislative candidates in November

Really, the most important feature of the elections to-day is that they will put the Walton Australian ballot law to the severest test that it has yet had.

It would have been well if the Legislature could have had the opportunity to revise this law, the better to adapt it local elections (where the lists of candidates are always long), but there has been no legislative session for more than has answered all querists so readily and freely, and has taken so much pains to interpret the law where its provisions are doubtful, we cannot but believe that readers will find it easy to conform to the intention of the law-makers,

The Attorney-General has been very his opinions, and those who are guided by his advice will be quite sure to do the right thing. Where trouble or confusion comes it will be where the elec-tion-officers are not newspaper-readers, or where they are incapable of understanding the law, plainly as it has been interpreted by the Attorney-General.

Yes; the Walton law is going to be put to a crucial test to-day. When the Legislature meets in blennial session, in December, it will have the experiences of two elections to guide it. It will then know what amendments of the law are needed and expected.

Our Street Fund.

Though the effort to secure a more rational division of the street fund has failed of success so far as this year's appropriation is concerned, we believe that much good has been done by the discussion. Hereafter we may hope for complete success. Here is a case where we may truly claim that nothing is de cided that is not decided aright. Now that the tax-payers of this community have been informed as to the system in vogue here, we greatly mistake if they will be satisfied until that system is changed. It may be that the Committee on Streets will now, of its own motion, inaugurate the reform demanded, but if it does not the City Council will be appealed to next year. And should the City Council prove obstinate upon a rehearing of the case an appeal can be

What is wanted is that street funds should be apportioned to the wards as their needs require. The Committee on Streets has been in the habit of dividing the money into six equal partsone part for each ward. Little or no attention has been paid to the fact that some wards are much larger than others; that some need more street improvements than others, and that some pay two or three times as much taxes as others. And one of the results of this unfair and unbusiness-like division has been that while some neighborhoods have been unable to get money to lay gutters and curbs, other neighborhoods have had so much more money than they really needed that they have had to find use for it by tearing up good streets to put them down again after a more modern fashion. This way of disposing of the people's money is a great public grievance-a fault discreditable to our municipal government and discouraging to enterprise

It may be that though the Committee on Streets may be entrusted with the street fund as heretofore, it will hereafter adopt a more satisfactory plan for its distribution. A considerable number of the committee's members, we feel sure, will favor a new policy. The ward system of dealing with impublic affairs is one of the greatest obstacles to Richmond's progress. We shall never prosper as we should until it is abandoned or vastly modified Wardism, which is provincialism, should give way to metropolitanism. Servants and Small-Pox.

The number of the cases of small-pox at Staunton and in other Valley localities, though affording no excuse for a panic, justifies the belief that the disease will spread to other communities. Vaccina tion should, therefore, be the order of the day in all counties and cities which are in communication with such places. Nor will much harm be done if those is authority will consider how they should provide hospital accommodations in case the disease should appear in their com-munities. Oftentimes a dollar spent in advance will do the work of twenty spent solation of the patients are the two great preventives against the spread of the disase, and which have enabled the people of this day to check the ravages of what was in olden time a resistless and relentless scourge. We advise all the people of this State who have not been vaccinated to be vac- gram quotes him as follows: cinated now. We advise each community, especially each city and town, to be ready to isolate and treat small-pox patients at a moment's notice. Especially should we look after the poorer classes amongst us. It is among such that the disease has lodged in Staunton, and these people bring trouble not only upon themselves, but upon the whole city in which they dwell.

ought to employ a cook, washer-woman, maid, or man-servant, nurse, butler, or hostler who has not been vaccinated. This ought to be the rule. Yet how few heads of families ever think of asking a servant: Have you been vaccinated? All servants ought to be questioned, and where they say that they have been vaecinated they ought to be made to show their vaccination scars. In this way the importance of being vaccinated would be impressed upon their minds, and they be instrumental in causing others of their class to be vaccinated. In every large southern city there are thousands and thousands of colored people who have not been vaccinated, and most of these live on the premises of white people, or else do laundry-work or other A. W. Thurman. service for white people. Apart from the promptings of humanity we ought, therefore, to see that the colored people are vaccinated Staunton is now going through an ordeal similar to that which was visited upon Richmond some ten or fifteen years ago. We then suffered much from exaggerated rumors, and no doubt this is the case with Staunton now. The best check upon idle and, oftentimes, malicious tongues that we found was the publication of a daily bulletin under the signature of the President of the City Board of Health, giving the total number of small-pox and variolold cases; the number of deaths, the new cases since the last report, location of

This plain, unvarnished official state ment served us in good stead, and if small-pox should come amongst us again, we should recommend that simflar publicity be given to the facts. All this is by the way-and must not be construed as any criticism upon the Staunton authorities. Indeed, since the disease there was certainly pronounced to be smallpox, the Staunton authorities, we believe, have pursued practically the course which found favor here,

Richmond has not quarantined against Staunton, and does not propose to do so. The people of that goodly city have our sympathy and our confidence also; sym pathy with those who are in distress, and confidence that wise heads and strong hands are now at work to extirpate the

An Interesting Bit of History.

In his speech at Covington, Ky., on Monday night last Mr. Carlisle dwelt for some time upon the question as to how and when silver was demonetized. He repeated statements which have been made a thousand times, and which have had an influence on the public in regard to the subject. Not that anybody has intentionally misstated the facts of the case, but because there is connected with this subject some history of which speakers and writers have not taken the trouble to possess themselves. We will add to what Mr. Carlisle said the following bit of history:

Spofford's American Almanac is recognized, universally, we think, as good authority. In that Almanac for 1878, Spofford gives a highly interesting and reasonably full history of what he terms "The Silver Money Question." He begins at the beginning. All of it is worth reading; but we shall make now only brief quotations from his history.

Here is one interesting fact stated by Mr. Spofford. We quote:

"The act of February 12, 1873, did not directly demonstize the sliver dollar. It simply prohibited its further coinage."

"Prohibiting its further coinage" was a stringent measure. It was the next thing to demonetizing silver in terms. act of February 12, 1873, provided as fol-

"That the silver coins of the United States shall be a trade dollar, a half-dol-lar or fifty-cent piece," etc. It then provided what the weight of these several coins should be, and the sentence closed as follows: "And said coins shall be a legal tender at their nominal value for any amount not exceeding five dollars in any one payment."

Silver had got down to a low point truly, but it is to be noticed, says Spofford, that neither in these sections, nor in any other part of the act of 1873, is the quality of legal tender away from the silver dollars already coined. We now quote Spofford as to how they were demonetized. He says:

"Their demonstization was accomplished "Their demonetization was accomplished by the Revised Statutes, enacted by Congress June 22, 1874, in which all the then existing body of laws of the United States were codified and reduced into one volume. In this revision, after repeating the above provision as to what should constitute the silver coins of the United States, the prohibition of issuing other coins followed, and the demonetization of silver was perfected by the sections regarding legal tender."

Mr. Spofford then quoted from the Re-

Mr. Spofford then quoted from the Revised Statutes as follows:

"The gold coins of the United States shall be a legal tender in all payments at their nominal value. The silver coins of the United States shall be a legal tender at their nominal value for any amount not exceeding five dollars in any one payment. The confusion on this subject was probably owing to facts which are explained

We are very glad that there is to be no contention on the part of the United States Court for the possession of the "gold-brick" prisoner, Parker alias Smith. The Commonwealth of Virginia has been put to great expense on his account; our courts have been in no wise remiss in their duty towards him, and the should be allowed to land him in the peni tentiary. If the evidence to be produced upon this second trial warrants that judg-

What a Babel there will be when the prominent Democrats get together for the purpose of reading each other out of the party.—Washington Post.

Possibly they may prove themselves to be wiser than the Post credits them with being. Certainly they should wait until after the next Democratic National Convention shall have formulated the creed of the Democratic party as it is to be when the next Congress and the next President ask the people for their votes.

Under the signature of L. H. B. the New York Journal of Commerce of yesterday publishes a half column letter from Richmond, which the writer thereof concludes as follows:

"We shall never have monetary peace or stability until the government is entirely dissociated from coinage and currency, until 'legal tender' is repealed, and until individuals can as freely put their gold and silver into the form of coins as into any other form."

A cable dispatch announces that on Tuesday the Marquis of Queensberry thrashed his son, Lord Alfred Douglas. If the old Marquis had bethought himself of the Solomonie injunction some years ago he might perhaps have made a better man of Lord Alfred, and been spared a great deal of mortification.

Virginia's "Tin Soldiers" are going Vaccination of all persons who have velops a mettle of which the State has not been vaccinated in recent years and every reason to be proud.

Allen W. Thurman, son of "the noblest Roman of them all," is chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Ohio. He is a chip of the old block on the silver question, and is, of course, in favor of the free coinage of silver. A Columbus telegram quotes him as follows:

"To all those who are conversant with the history of the subject it is simply haushable to think that the great Secretary of the Treasury, in defence of the administration and sound money, has been compelled to make the same speech that has been made by Senator John Sherman each year for the last twenty years. It is almost a dead copy, and has been answered over and over again until people are weary of it.

"The same dishonesty pervades it as does the copy from which it is taken, but in the case of Mr. Carlisle it is worse, because he pretends to be a Democrat, and then states that Democratic senators, and among them my father, Allen G. Thurman, voted for the act of 1573, he trying to create the impression all the while by his statement that they did this with the full knowledge of what the bill contained, when he knew that every one of these Senators and Representatives, including the grand old Beck from his cwn tained, when he knew that every one of these Senators and Representatives, in-cluding the grand old Beck from his own State, by whom he now tries by misrepre-sentation to help bolster up his own traitorous position, denied in open Senate that they had any knowledge of what he impressed upon their minds, and they tries in this speech by fraud to make peo-would talk about it at their homes, and ple believe they did."

In other words, the Democratic senators say they did not know they were voting for any such measure as the de-monetization act of 1873. We have elsewhere given Mr. Spofford's explanation of the misunderstanding mentioned by Mr.

North Carolina on Silver. The members of the Democratic State Executive Committee of North Carolina put themselves on record on Tuesday last as in favor of the free coinage of silver first, last, and all the time. Only or vote was cast in the negative. But Mr. Cleveland will be President until March 4, 1897, and will from now till then ob struct the path that leads to free coinage However, the North Carolina Democrati will do all they can to render their action effective, it being their present purpose to support for the next Congress and the next Presidency no candidate who does not concur in their free-silver With the President and his secretaries and comptrollers fighting the free-coinage Democrats, the latter" will go into what will appear to many people to be a hopeless contest.

The bronze figures on the new Confederate monument at Raleigh are said to be particularly good. We have nowhere seen the name of the sculptor who modelled them. Is Mr. Muldoon, the designer of the monument as a whole, to be credited also with the modelling re

Now that the City Council has begun to consider its obligations in the matter of the Jeb. Stuart monument it should never rest content until it makes the monument a sure thing. In this matter Richmond has a duty to perform that it cannot honorably postpone any longer.

The auditorium built at Houston as the meeting-place of the Confederate veterans is to be left standing. It is to become permanent. This is the plan Richmond must adopt if the veterans decide to meet here next year, which we consider is quite likely. It is said that Justice Harlan allowed his angry passions to rise whilst read-tax case, and that he "jawed" and glowered at the Chief Justice mightily. He was not merely warm, but indignant. Summer encampments of Virginia milling his dissenting opinion in the incom

tary have been anticipated somewhat. MUST BE A SILVER MAN.

Among his callers yesterday were Cornelius N. Bliss, General Quesada, president of the Cuban Revolutionary Society, and Ferdinand W. Peck, of Chicago, Mr. Bliss remained in consultation with General Harrison for nearly three quarters of an hour. General Quesada, it is understood, was inclined to discuss at some length the Cuban troubles, but the former President quickly ended the interview. General C. H. T. Collis and Senator Thomas H. Senator Carter is chairman of the Republican National Committee, and was suggested for that place by General Harrison when he was a candidate for reelection in 1892. I saw him after he had called on General Harrison. He said the Democratic party is very weak in the West, and that Cleveland is not popular with his own party in that section. "The Republican prospect west of the Mississippi," he continued, "depends on how the party meets the silver question The western demand must be met in the national platform. Fifty-nine electoral votes depend on this. These votes will not go to any man not willing to piedge nimself to sign the silver legislation sent to him by Congress. It would not be surpriving if the House elected the President should the silver men put a third candidate in the field. I believe silver bills will be passed by both houses next winter.

"As to the candidates, there is no pronounced sentiment. Allison is the only man west of the Mississippi talked of. I am unable to estimate his following. John C. Spooner, former senator from Wisconsin, has many friends. The silver views of a candidate, and not his personality, will interest us. We shall insist on a man and a declaration which will meet that sentiment."

LIGITIMATE TRADING VS. SENSA-A struggle of decided interest, especially as the bogus price-makers are just now in full retreat. So-called half-value productions and supplies obtained from unusual channels are out of style for the present, at least. What the trade wants is a fair article at a fair price. Our aim is in that direction.
